

In the ever changing world that we live in, the internet, whilst a wealth of information and wonder, can also be a dangerous place for children to be without your support and guidance.

Littledown School regularly provides e-safety workshops focussing on how to keep children safe online. These sessions are delivered by the SEBD Outreach Service (SEBDOS), who have a trained Parentzone facilitator. Parentzone are an organisation that shares the belief that parents are the real experts.

The programme delivered is based on the Authoritative Parenting Approach which helps parents to deploy simple parenting techniques to keep children safer online. Parents are also informed about who to contact should they have a concern about their child's safety online, details of which are below.
